

Taralli

Ingredients:

500 gr of flour

(a mix of not strong flour: like whole wheat flour, type 1 flour, 00 flour)

180 gr of Evo olive oil (35-38% of the flour weight)

200 gr of White wine (40% of the weight of the flour, but add 20 g more because during boiling this may be reduced)

10 gr of salt.

Note the quantity of the olive oil and wine can change because of the flour, if you use more whole wheat flour respect the 00 flour, take out the oil at 150 gr and add more wine at 220 gr.

Preparation:

In a big bowl, pour the flour, then the olive oil, the salt and pour the wine while you are mixing with a fork or by hand;

when the dough in the bowl stay all together, work the dough on the kneading board, with strenght but slowly. The dough should smooth; cover the dough with a kitchen film and tea towel.

After resting for 10 minutes, take a piece of dough, roll it by hand on the kneading machine board and make a large, thick rope, cut it into large pieces, like cubes, roll it by hand make a rope as thick as a middle finger, and close it by making a ring.

Put in a big tray previously covered with a baking foil. when all the dough is finished.

In a large saucepan, pour 5 litres of water and bring it to the boil. Once it comes to the boil, pour in 10 taralli, stir gently with a spoon, wait for them to come out of the water naturally, quickly take them out of the water and place them on a large surface (baking tray or large plate or kneading board) on which you have previously placed baking paper. Boil all the taralli 10 at the time and leave them to dry in a ventilated place or in the kitchen with a slightly open window for at least 2 hours. Until quite dry. Bake at 190° in the oven for 20/30 minutes, depending on the oven.

Enjoy your time in the kitchen, be patient, let the energy of love become the best ingredient for any recipe!
